It works by making use of many injections of homeopathic medications, plant extracts, vitamins and pharmaceutical ingredients amongst others into the subcutaneous fat layer. Mesotherapy has a reputation of affecting the fat deposits within the body by breaking down the connective bonds of adipose fat cells. The newly broken down adipose tissue is then naturally flushed out of the body and a more even skin tone is amongst the results. The patients can erase cellulite and have their target areas become smooth once again. Amongst the most common parts on the body to be given Mesotherapy comprise the thighs, the part under the chin, abdomen, legs, arms, and hips.

Injections are normally spaced out over 1 to 2 week intervals, and the majority of treatments do not take any more than 60 minutes to do. Depending on the part being treated and the complexity and size, the specific number of treatments could vary from 4 to 15.

Since Mesotherapy injections are particularly targeted on the body, only a little amount of medication is required to bring about immediately noticeable outcome. Another advantage is that patients could avoid many of the side effects that normally accompany orally administered medications or more dangerous surgically invasive methods.
